

Arts and Humanities Taster Day – Provisional Programme
June 29th 2016

Come and see what it's like to study History, Art History, Italian, Archaeology, Anthropology, and Linguistics at the University of Cambridge. At this Arts and Humanities Taster Day themed around Italy, you will travel (virtually) through the peninsula with University of Cambridge scholars as your guides. The programme is as follows:

Breakfast (for those staying the night before)/Refreshments (for those arriving on the morning)

10-10.45 Your trip begins in Venice! A quick crash course in Italian will show what it's like to learn a new language at Cambridge (no experience required).

Didier Descouens

10.50-11.35 Florence is a city full of stunning art. Join an art historian and a literary scholar for visual tour of murals, frescos, mosaics and more.

Scott Raymond

11.40-12.25 Rome's architecture is a mixture of everything from classical to modern. A film scholar and a scholar of architecture will take you on a filmic tour of the constructed spaces of the eternal city.

Alexander Z.

Lunch

1.00-1.45 Travel to Naples with a cultural historian and learn how to excavate histories of food in this culinary capital.

1.45-2.30 Continue your journey to Calabria with a scholar of linguistics to discover the dialects of Italy.

Break/Refreshments

3-4 Hands on sessions split between the museum of Archaeology & Anthropology, and the Classics Museum

4 Depart Cambridge (Accommodation is available for those wishing to stay on to the University of Cambridge Open Day on June 30th)
